WE CHARGE GENOCIDE: A CONTEXTUALIZED REVIEW OF THE HEALTH CONSEQUENCES OF POLICE VIOLENCE

Focusing on Black communities in the United States, this project is a systematic review of the health consequences of police violence. Findings from the empirical literature are also placed into context, drawing from the work of historians. I will close with a discussion of strategies to interrupt the processes through which state violence harms Black lives, including community organizing and social movements.

PHARAONISM AS RACIAL NATIONALISM IN EGYPT

Pharaonism is a mode of national identification in Egypt that links present-day Egyptians with the ancient Pharaohs. Scholars have examined Pharaonism as a form of "territorial nationalism," but my research in Egyptian primary sources indicates that it could better be understood as racial nationalism: an assertion of a unique Egyptian racial identity. This lecture will examine Pharaonism's links to European race science and anti-blackness in Egypt in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.
